And it appened to be on Jeffries's wedding day, as he was married that afternoon it Oakland, Cal. In company with Bill Delaney and Dick Adams, Big Jim and his future betterhalf made the big sneak' away from the Oyster Loaf, and then followed his most important match, that with Mrs. Jeffries.

"Shortly after that Jeff was matched with Jack Munro, and was training ard for the contest at Harbin Springs, when he met with a slight accident, umped his knee on a rock while reachng for a drink in one of the springs. He could have gone to the ring or crutches and defeated Munro, but he would not take a chance of this slight handlenp, and the contest had to be postponed for two months. This is just an instance to exemplify what I have claimed right along, viz., that Jeffries felt himself out carefully before arriving at the conclusion that he could 'get right' for Johnson. Having occasion to watch his marked improvement in the last year I am willing to say that he will be O. K. when he climbs brough the ropes on July 4th. "He will scale closer

I met the best condition possible when he meets Welsh. There is great interest in the contest here, even more than in the Jeffries-Johnson affair. Welsh plans to visit America right after his fight with McFarland, and will probably leave about June 8 for New York. He will take with him his manager, Harry Marks. Eddy Carsey, the American from California, supposed to be the feather weight, will also accompany him, but I doubt whether Iron Hague will go with him, as was stated son time ago. A new fighter from India has just arrived here, Gutter Wells. He is a big fellow, standing 6 feet 21/2 inches, which is no doubt near the record. There has been so much wrangling among the promoters and boxers in California during the past year that the wonder is that the sport has not been killed before this. William J. Slattery, the critic on the San Francisco Call, has taken the boxers and promot ers to task for trying to kill the gama in that state, and every honest follower of the sport will back him up in the stand he takes. Mr. Slattery has advised the promoters and boxers, alike, to come out in the open and have every-thing above board. He points out that California is the one state of the Union where long contests are permitted, and where the people favor the game, and back it up, and for that reason they should be given every consideration when matches are made, no matter whether they are champlenship events

He also points out that it is a direct slap at the people of that state for outsiders to try and force an eastern man for referee, when there are more capable men in that state than any other is the Union. Mr. Slattery is right in the splendid chance to beat Wolgast for the world's title. This talk about McFar-good of the boxing game, that the promaters out there will try to get to-gether in harmony and take the public into their confidence more than they have in the past. The people of California have demonstrated on many occasions that they really enjoy the sport of boxing, and supported it wonderfully well, and it is up to the boxers and promoters to save it from the clutches of a lot of men who would think nothing of killing it to meet their own cains. Some of the stories sent out work of clever press agents, have done the game no good; and if they were to stick to facts the public throughout the country would be better pleased and the game itself would be better off.

Ad Wolgast, the present light weight champion and whom Milwaukee claims as one of her champion products, will give the boxing fans of the middle west a chance to see him in a real workout on June 3, when he meets Jack Redmond, another Milwaukee lightweight, formerly of St. Paul, in a ten round no decision contest before the Badger Athletic club in Milwankee. The weight is to be 130 pounds at 3 oclock in the afternoon, which will make it the reguing his contest with Joe Thomas he was There was some talk of securing Mattle Baldwin of Boston to meet Wolgast, but the promoters were of the opinion that Redmond was not only a better card to put against Wolgast, but that he would give him a much harder battle and force him to go his top speed.

Redmend is not at all backward in secting Wolgast, for he has battled with him on two former occasions, once in 1907 in Milwaukee, when they fought a six round draw, and again in 1908, when Wolgast secured the decision after six rounds of very strenuous boxingan't see Johnson getting to him with middle weight, and if he can make a At that time Redmond weighed only 124 soything like a clean solld punch. Of showing with Papke he will be in line pounds, whereas now the control of the contr pounds, whereas now he is a full-fledged lightweight and stronger in about a boxer's condition, etc., must "Papke is also negotiating for a every way. During the past year Red-necessarily be obtained right at the match with Hugo Kelly of Chicago on mond has met some of the best boxes." mond has met some of the bast boys in the west, including Ray Bronson of indianapolls, with whom he fought a draw at New Orleans. This should make him look pretty good in view of the fact that Bronson had just previously fought a twenty round draw with Packy McFariand. Redmond has been training earnestly for the past month and it is his declaration that if he cannot hold his own with Woigast, then he will be ready to retire from the

> The matching of Frankie Conley of Kenosha, Wis., feather weight, with Owen Moran of England should prove a crackerjack of a contest and one that will no doubt please the boxing fans of Los Angeles. The weight is to be 125 pounds at 4 oclock, which will bring Moran down pretty fine, but at the same time give him an advantage of a few pounds over Conley. The Wisconsin boy s a legitimate bantam weight and can do 116 pounds if necessary, but he has been taking on weight of late and 128 pounds is more to his liking than 115 pounds, so after all there will not be great deal of difference in avoirdpois, and as Conicy has demonstrated that he is a high class fighter, there is no rea ton to believe other than he will give the Englishman as hard a battle as any feather weight in the country, with the possible exception of Abe Attell. The recent sad accident which Moran figured in at San Francisco may have a little effect in his work against Conley. Such has been the experience of most boxers placed in a similar position and it remains to be seen whether Moran will prove an exception to the
